June 2021 Newsletter

What's new on the farm?

Things are in full swing here on the farm(s). The cattle are well adjusted to their daily moves across the pasture...they get quite vocal if I am slow to mooove their fence for them...we have made it half way around the farm in our rotation and hope this good mix of sunny weather with rain every few days will continue to help the grasses and forage re grow! Our youngest pigs on farm are about to begin their rotations through the woodlot paddocks, having been deep bedding in their electric fence training area for a while now. Last year's pigs did quite a planting of forages for this year's pigs and I'm excited to see them enjoy it. The sows are helping us break up the forest floor in some areas we thinned out with a chainsaw over the winter before we seed that ground and then bring the sows into a shadier section of woods for their mid-July due dates.

Finally, the portions of pasture the meat chickens first saw are now beginning to grow back a vibrant green. The combination of daily moves to fresh pasture, high quality non-GMO feed, and the freedom to act like a chicken as these birds growing very well. Keep reading for order info!
